These data are securely stored in our database on a completely anonymised basis, we don't share these data with any third party.

We can also ask you about your location in our communication with you, if you address our support with a problem or a question and we will need to know what country (and/or city) you are based in to answer your question or fix your problem.

- Technical data about the device you use to access the Product.

This includes your Internet and/or network connection (Internet speed, IP address); mobile device identifiers; operating system, browser type; your hardware details; technical details provided by your browser.

We will process this data to ensure that our Product interacts with your device in the most efficient way. This data helps us collect statistics about the devices our users use so we can improve the Product. We also need it in case of an error or issue, so that we can understand what kind of device or software experienced a problem and what we can do about that.

When you start using the Product we connect you to the closest Boosteroid server to ensure the best experience and low latency. This may be a server located in your country or in other countries, areas or even continents. The closer you are to the servers the better experience you have. Here's how we identify which server we should connect you to: we evaluate the quality of the Internet connection between you and all the locations where we have our servers and choose the location that shows the best connection.

- Details of your use of the Product.

This includes metrics data about when and how you use the Product; web traffic; purchase history; your preferences and choices like subscription type, preferred language or currency.

For e.g., we collect and analyze data about your visits to our website to optimize design and functionality.

We collect technical logs, information about games you play (including games you play via third-party platforms or launchers like Steam, Epic, Wargaming.net, etc.) date and time of your play, duration of your gaming sessions, your multiplayer sessions, what games are added to your Boosteroid account, activities you are engaged in on other platforms that are connected to your Boosteroid account.

- Bug and error reports, crash logs.

Our software automatically generates bug/crash reports to get information about software or hardware problems that may occur while you use the Product. This data includes your device type, operating system and browser type, network connection and how our software interacts with your device. We use such data to fix problems on the Product. We need it to identify the type of error or bug, where and why it occurs and how we can fix it. We use such data to provide you support.

We may integrate third-party software to generate, collect, manage bug reports/crash logs. Such third-party software will not receive any of your data, except bug and crash-related data mentioned above. It will deal only with the software issues that occur while you use the Product. We'll always maintain the necessary level of data security when using third-party software.

- Your communication.

We receive your communication with us via email and support chat, your messages and comments in internal blogs/forums. We also have access to your in-game chats to provide you with the opportunity to use them while you play games through the Product.

We may intercept, record and/or monitor any communication (including phone calls or other electronic communication) between you and us. We can do so to resolve queries in the future, for the purposes of security, staff training, complying with our legal responsibilities.

Please note that:

- We will NEVER ask you to send us any of your personal documents (passport, other ID, social security number, taxpayer number, birth/marriage certificate, driving license, health insurance, etc.). If somebody asks you to provide these documents on behalf of us, never do that and contact us at support@boosteroid.com as soon as possible.

- If we need any other data not specified here, we will ask you to provide such data, explain why we need it and what we will do with it. We will ask for your consent or explain other legitimate grounds of our collection and use of such data.
- Even if you only access our website and do not create the account, we will automatically gather information from your computer such as your IP address, browser type, referring/exit pages, and operating system.

7. Audio and our use of your microphone.

It may be possible for you to use microphone functionality on the Product so that you can communicate with other gamers in in-game chats. All we do here is the transmission of the audio from your device to the in-game environment. We do not save and store any audio files with your communication. It's just real-time transmission of an audio signal from you to the in-game environment and vice-versa.

Our software accesses your microphone through your browser. Then our software maintains the transmission of the sound from your device through your browser to the in-game environment.

All audio (as well as video) signals, including your communication in in-game chats, that come from/to your device are cryptographically secure.

8. Sensitive Personal Data and information.

Never send us, and never disclose or make available any sensitive Personal Data and information including social security numbers, ethnic origin, religious or philosophical beliefs, political opinions, sex life and orientation, trade union membership, health-related information, biological characteristics, genetic data, biometrics, social background, family, criminal history, and/or any other information that you personally consider sensitive, as well as any other information that can be reasonably considered as sensitive.

If you disclose any sensitive Personal Data/information when uploading/posting user content to the Product, you are responsible for the consequences of such disclosure. This data will be collected by us and stored on our servers (as any user content you upload/post) and its processing will be considered as processing that relates to personal data which are manifestly made public by the data subject (you). We won't process such data for profiling, marketing, etc. We will share it with competent authorities if we are requested.

9. Social Network Accounts

You may log into the Product using social network accounts, such as Google, Facebook. These services will authenticate your identity and provide you with the option to share certain Personal Data with us such as your username, first name, last name, email address. On Facebook, you may use the dev console to manually manage the information that Facebook will provide to us when you log into the Product. On Google you may manually manage the information Google will provide to us in the settings of your Google Account. Anyway, whichever information Google will provide us when you log in using Google, we will collect only your email. We do not need and will not use other information, like the first and last name specified on your Google Account.

When you sign up for the Product, you may add a link to your Facebook account. This is optional. We will not check your Facebook page and collect any information from it. This link will not be visible for other users on the Product or anywhere else on the Internet.

10. Connecting your YouTube account for gameplay streaming

On Boosteroid you can stream your gameplay to your personal YouTube channel.

For this purpose, you need to link your personal YouTube account to your Boosteroid account. We will need rights to see, edit, and delete your YouTube videos, ratings, comments, and captions. This list of scopes goes in one piece and, unfortunately, we cannot request a lesser amount of rights. We will not collect any information related to ratings, comments, and captions of your videos. We will not watch, edit or delete any of your videos.

In our turn, we undertake to use the rights you have granted to us only for providing you the functionality for live streaming of your gameplay.

The generated video file will contain the name of the game and mention that it's a live broadcast of gameplay. But of course, you can change it any time directly at your YouTube channel.

You do not transfer your YouTube account to us, but only grant some rights related to it. Your account will remain your property, and you can revoke the permissions granted to us at any time, but in this case, you will not be able to stream your gameplay on Boosteroid to your personal YouTube channel.

11. Third-party websites and platforms

The Product contains links to and from the websites or services of third parties, e.g. to platforms like Steam, Wargaming.net, etc., or developers/publishers whose games are available on the Product. Such third parties also collect personal data (like your email or name). This may include saving information to your account on the Product that is related to such third party websites and platforms (for e.g. saving game progress). This Policy does not apply to external websites, companies or providers, so please check their privacy notices.

12. Your Steam, Epic, Wargaming.net, etc. account information.

To access games through the Product you will be asked to log in to your account on a third-party gaming platform or game launcher. You will be redirected to the login page of such a platform or launcher where you will enter your login and password. We do not request, process and store your digital distribution platform or launcher account information. It is stored and processed by the digital distribution platform or launcher.

For example, to play Fortnite you'll have to log in to your Epic Games account. When you launch Fortnite on Boosteroid, you'll be redirected to the Epic Games launcher page where you'll log in to your Epic Games account. Then you'll access the game. We will not receive or store data related to your Epic Games login or password.

Here's another example. Darwin Project is a free-to-play game, so you only need to log in to Steam account to play it. But if the game is paid, e.g. Trine 4 The Nightmare Prince, you should have it purchased before playing it through Boosteroid. You buy games from an owner or an official distributor, so if it's Trine 4 The Nightmare Prince, you'll be redirected to Steam, where you'll have to buy the game. We won't get any details of such a purchase. If you already have the game purchased, you simply log to Steam and play it under your own Steam account.

If you agree by ticking the box, we can save your gaming platform/launcher account login and password, so you don't have to enter them each time you log in. These data will be securely stored in our database on our servers. Each time you launch a gaming session and see a gaming platform/launcher login page, our software will access this data and you'll be able to log in automatically. We will never share this data with any third party and will not use this data in any way, other than making it easier and faster for you to log in to your gaming platform or launcher account. These data (as any other user data in our database) are stored encrypted. It means, we do not store your gaming platform password, but a hashed (encrypted) data that helps our software automatically provide your login and password when you log in to a gaming platform/launcher.

If you do not want us to save your Steam, Epic, Wargaming.net, etc. account login and password, please, do not tick the box.

13. Use of Your Personal Data

- in certain circumstances, we may seek your consent to use your Personal Data for any specific purpose. We will ask you to confirm a separate consent to your Personal Data being processed for a specific purpose, either through the Product or by other means.

So, it will be impossible for anyone to use such anonymous data to identify you. We will use such anonymous data to analyze request and usage patterns so that we can enhance the content, improve the Product and its navigation. We may use such anonymous data for any purpose and disclose it to third parties.
